InfoView

Asset management simplified

Philips InfoView for healthcare professionals

The simple fact of healthcare is that employees are being asked to manage more work with fewer resources. You feel the constant pressure of having to reduce costs while optimizing equipment uptime, dealing with inefficiencies associated with inaccurate and disparate asset data and navigating through the complexities of compliance and reporting.

Introducing InfoView

Now, there's a powerful asset management tool that helps you effectively manage, monitor and control your clinical assets with enhanced financial and operational performance. Our scalable, cloud-based solution uses a data-driven approach to deliver actionable business insights.

InfoView – helping you make better decisions that can save time and money

With customizable dashboards, automated reporting and your team of equipment service professionals, we make InfoView easy to use and understand from implementation to ongoing support.

Let us show you how InfoView may be able to help your organization save time and money:

Why choose Philips InfoView?

Philips has the expertise, experience and tools to help you manage your clinical assets.

Tools developed by service professionals

At Philips, we use InfoView to manage hundreds of thousands of our customers' clinical assets, the same assets you manage every day.

Expertise

InfoView was created by medical service professionals who understand the biomed environment you work in. And you get ongoing support from seasoned medical service professionals, not a software vendor.

Experience

With over 100 years of dedicated healthcare experience, we have the expert knowledge and resources to support your business goals.

Read what InfoView users have to say:

“Our 16 technicians have reported a major reduction in daily administrative time managing work orders using InfoView.”

- Director of Biomedical Engineering

“Our prior CMMS solution was from a software vendor who provided a database system with no PM procedures, model numbers, nor standardization across our sites. InfoView is a true biomedical engineering solution!”

- Director, Biomedical Engineering
